MURDER, ROBBERY AND ARSON SUSPECTED.

Three negroes are being hunted by the Maryland police in connection with the death by fire Saturday night of Mr. and Mre. John T. Miller at their store at Accokeek, Prince Georges county, Md. One of them is said to have seen the $2,000 carried by the old storekeeper who did not trust banks, and a resident of Accokeek saw change made in the store and the money exhibited.

The negroes came in a sloop from Alexandria. They made frequent trips to Accokeek for lumber. They left two hours after the fire with only a fourth of the lumber they usually carried. The police have a description of the derkeys.

Much stress is laid on the fact that a negro saw the roll of money the storekeeper always carried He bought something and was given change after passing over a one-dollar bill. After that nothing was seen of him, and it was thought he returned to his boat, which was about a mile and a half from Miller's store.

A farther search of the rains of the Miller home resulted in finding Mr. Miller's eye-glasses and a piece of cloth entwined around them. This seems to indicate that when the old man was caught in the fire he was dressed. Near his wife's body were also found several corset stays. This, the police say, indicates she was also dressed when caught in the fire, or was murdered.

Mrs. Robert W. Miller, the sieter-inlaw, who lives near by, said both of the old persons went to bed about 9.30 o'clock and she is unable to understood why the clothing of both Mr. and Mrs. Miller could be found near the bodies. The general impression is that some one got in the store from the resr door and hid until after Mrs. Miller started to bed. The police say it is possible that both were attacked, one at the stairway and the other at the end of the counter. Following this, the police say, the murderers must have saturated the place with oil and then set fire to it, escaping, after robbing the old man, from the front door, which was found open at the tan the fire was rag-

One of the most inexplicable things hefore the police is how the slippers of Mre. Miller could have got in the path leading to Robert W. Miller's home

It was said Mrs. Miller never wore the slippers from the house. The shoes indicate beyond all doubt that they had been worn outdoors. Mr. Robert W Miller, brother of the dead man, was in this city today.

GIRLS' FRIENDLY.

Au interested and appreciative audience greeted Mrs. Henrietta Irving Bolton last evening, when she gave, in the Parish Hall, one of her inimitable addresses before the Christ Church Branch of the Girls' Friendly Society and its guests. Mrs. Balton gave a brief sketch of this society from its organization in England in 1875, and told of its growth in the United States since 1879, to its present membership of 30,000 She explained what the society stands for and appealed to the girls to live up, at home and abroad, to their pledges. After the address dainty refreshments were served by the ladles in charge, Mrs. Bo'ton, a great niece of Washington Irving, is a most gifted writer and speaker. She has devoted her life to this great work among girls and is, at present, president of the Washington Diecesan Girls' Friendly Society, and vice president in charge of Virginia, West Virginia, Maryland, the Carolinas and other southern states.

MEDICAL SOCIETY.

cal Society of Northern Virginia and the and apartment house business, District of Columbia, will be held in Manassas next Wednesday, May 18. It is expected that fity physicians will attend. Election of officers and the discussion of medical topics will be the principal business.

FIGHTING A OHANGE OF DIS-TRIOF LINES.

Representative Charles C. Carlin, of Alexandria, Vr., will be renominated with ut opposition, and renomination in that district means re-slection. Carlin is a young man who has hewed his own way to the front. He was not born with a silver spoon in his mouth, and he had an uphill road to hoe when he was a boy, and while it is no uncommon thing to find scores of men in the west who have climbed from the farm to the forum it is rather unusual to find in the scuth men who have achieved as great success as has Mr. Carlin with as few advantages as he has had. Two years ago, when Carlin had served only one year, he had a rather hard fight for renomination, but he won against some of the strongest representatives of the best families of the district. He has accomplished much for his constituency. He has the respect of the republicans as well as the democrate in the House, and will continue to make an excellent representa-

As much as this might be said of scores of other representatives on either side of the House whose services for their districts are appreciated by their constituencles. But there is more than local interest attached to Mr. Carlin's congressional service. The principal portion of his district is embraced within that section of Virginia which was formerly a portion ol the District of Oolumbia. Paesident Tait thinks that the recession of the Virginia portion of the District back to the commonwealth of Virginia was a mistake, and the president has attacked the constitutionality of that act of Congress. During the last year there has been a great deal of talk of congressional action looking to the restoration of the original limits of the District of Columbia, and Mr. Carlin has been the leading opponent of this movement. His people naturally prefer the franchise as cit zens of the Old Dominion to the advantages which they are promised if they will only consent to come back and give the real estate speculators who have about exhausted their efforts in Washington a chance to extend their sphere of influence to the fertile fields across the Potomac. Thus far Mr. Carlin has been successful in his efforts to prevent action by Congress and it would sppear from present indications that he will continue to be successful during the remainder of the present term .- [froy, N. Y., Times, May 7.
